

KILLED DEER. NONE CLAIM HONOR

(From Wednesday's Daily)
That game, especially deer, is plentiful in the mountains surrounding the city this year, is evident from the fact that the carcasses of three male deer, shot during daylight yesterday morning, were here during the day and night. Dr. H. T. Southworth, Joe Wheatley and Rev. L. W. Wheatley were the first to arrive with a trophy. They shot a large buck about a few miles southeast of the city and carried home with it at noon. The three hunters mentioned are famous hunters. They disagree as to which of them shot the deer that brought down the animal. Rev. Wheatley is pressing his claims very hard. Doctor Southworth and Arden Wheatley are congratulating them as being the first to show their prowess in the hunt. It is probable that neither will claim the honor as it is that one person is allowed to shoot only three male deer during a season.

The appearance of the dead deer does not bear out the suicide theory. It is an exhibition at the O. K. meat market. It is of the black tail family. It bears mute evidence that it had a narrow escape from the hunters before, as part of the antler appendage is missing. Its right antler shows that it was grazed by a bullet or injured in conflict as the antler is calloused near the top of the antler. One of its horns shows that it was with an accident. The short stump covered with velvet, with four small points surrounding its base.

Walter Field, the strong anchor of the Prescott Fire Department tug of war team, is entitled to the honor of bringing down one of the finest bucks ever seen here on the opening day of the deer season. It is a five-pronged buck, the horns being perfect from the stag's standpoint. It arrived here yesterday by express from Cedar Lake with the carcass of a smaller buck. The three deer are on exhibition at the O. K. meat market. A number of hunting parties, encouraged by the success of those who left yesterday, will leave this morning for the mountains.

MISS THORBECKE THE BRIDE OF B. H. RAY

(From Wednesday's Daily)
A climax was reached in a romance which had its inception in Jerome a year ago in the marriage here yesterday of Miss Alma Thorbecke and B. H. Ray. The fateful words making man and wife were pronounced in the Catholic parsonage by Rev. Father Lamont at 8:30 o'clock in the morning. A number of the relatives of the bride and their intimate friends were present. Miss Bessie Baumann of this city acted as bridesmaid, with Joseph Thorbecke, brother of the bride, best man. The bride was gown in a champagne colored dreamy creation of the modiste's art. She carried a flower bouquet. The bridesmaid was dressed in French voile, with picture hat.

A wedding lunch followed the ceremony at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bessie Baumann, the decorations being of roses and white carnations. The happy couple left on the afternoon train on a honeymoon trip to the Grand Canyon and the coast.

The bride is the daughter of Joseph Thorbecke, of Jerome. Until a few years ago she was a resident of this city almost from childhood. She is the favorite of a wide circle of friends here and in Jerome.

The groom came here from Kansas a few years ago, settling in Jerome. He is in charge of the agency of the Prescott Steam Laundry in the Copper City and is very popular there. He enjoys the acquaintance of a large number of friends who cheerfully join him on his matrimonial sea. They will reside in Jerome.

MOTHER DESTITUTE WITH BROOD OF FOUR

(From Wednesday's Daily)
In destitute circumstances and with her little daughters to care for, the youngest infant, Mrs. John Nickerson arrived here yesterday from Fort Worth, Texas, coming by way of Phoenix, where the board of supervisors of Maricopa county furnished her transportation to Prescott.

Her husband died in Fort Worth, Texas, four months ago. He succumbed to tuberculosis after a lingering illness, leaving her penniless. She is on her way to Sacramento, California, where her mother resides.

After her arrival here she applied for assistance to John Hopkins, proprietor of the Prescott Hotel. He furnished her a room for herself and children last night. The attention of the board of supervisors was called to her sad plight. She will meet Supervisors Smith and Harrington this morning at 9 o'clock when the board will probably give her and her little ones transportation to Sacramento.

PRESCOTT MEXICANS CELEBRATE NATAL DAY

(From Thursday's Daily)
Singing praises of the patriotic heroes who achieved Mexican independence, the Mexican residents of Prescott closed the most successful Mexican independence celebration ever held in this city last night in Dougherty hall. Tumultuous cheering lasting several minutes followed when Fred Madrid held aloft the American flag and referred to Presidents Washington and Lincoln of the United States as the greatest heroes of this country. His address was brimful of patriotism and eloquently delivered. He was interrupted many times by loud applause. He is president of the Mexican patriotic society of this city and very popular with his people.

Following the address the Mexican national anthem was rendered by the Besse orchestra. G. Garcia then delivered a lecture on the act of independence. Recitations by Joven Angel Flores and Amelia Rynearson, a talented young woman, preceded a national cantata by six young women with a chorus of five voices. The soloists of the cantata were Felicitas Contreras, Matilda Cuen, Teresa Seidel, Gaudula Estrella, Edelmira Martinez and Angelita Martinez. The chorus was Christina Espinola, Luz Monreal, E. Lurigi, Florencia Chavez and Antonio Hurtado.

A grand ball lasting until midnight followed the literary exercises.

The program of the celebration as announced in yesterday's Journal-Miner was carried out, not an upward incident marred the celebration. The committee on decoration are entitled to special mention for the artistic draping of Dougherty hall in the American and Mexican national colors, the American flag being in evidence everywhere entwined with the colors of the sister republic.

GREAT INTEREST IN SUNDAY SCHOOL WORK

(From Thursday's Daily)
The Sunday School Teacher Training Class of Prescott was organized in the First Baptist church on Monday evening with the Rev. Francis T. Walker as teacher of the class, J. N. Piper secretary and Mrs. Morris, organist.

The following persons enrolled as students: Mrs. Chalmers, Miss Lulu Ellis, Mr. Ede, George P. Harrington, Mrs. Pallip Hoover, F. A. Hathaway, Mrs. M. E. Morris, J. N. Piper, E. C. Payne, Luke Powell, Mrs. Luke Powell, Dr. Harry T. Southworth, Mr. A. N. Turnbull, Dr. Agnes McKee Wallace, Mrs. Wallingford, Miss Inez Fairbank, and Miss Opal Creekmur.

There are more than a million Sunday school teachers in the United States and Canada. In the wide outreach of their influence in Bible study, they come in contact with 15,000,000 members of the Sunday schools of the international field. More and more the church leaders recognize that teacher training is the Sunday school's greatest problem. Never were they so united in the determination to find its solution. Upon the result of their labors in this direction depends the largest success of all Sunday school work.

At the recent convention of the International Sunday School Association, 48 associations represented 6,704 teacher training classes, 79,086 students and 10,016 graduates. Of this number, graduates eleven were from Prescott.

At the present time 61 state or provincial Sunday school associations have either especially appointed teachers or training superintendents or teacher training committees, to supervise this department of work.

Rev. Francis T. Walker, pastor of the First Baptist church, is teacher training superintendent for Arizona, and he would be very glad to assist in the organization of classes anywhere in Arizona. His own class meets each Monday evening in the First Baptist church at 8 o'clock. A cordial invitation is extended to all over 16 years of age to join his class.

GOLD POURING IN FROM YAVAPAI DISTRICTS

(From Thursday's Daily)
Bullion and gold receipts yesterday at the Prescott National Bank included a gold bar weighing 416 ounces from the congress Consolidated Mines Company at Congress, a small gold bar from Wickenburg and a consignment of gold dust from Stanton.

The Congress bar is a result of a clean up of the mill which has been running steadily several years. Regular bullion shipments are received from this company at stated periods and shipments of high grade concentrates are made in carload lots to the El Paso smelters.

The Congress mine is opened to greater depth than any in the territory. It has an enormous tonnage of ore it blocked out which is being mined as fast as it can be treated in the mill.

The gold dust was washed in the creeks and gulches leading from Rich hill in the Weaver district. Many of these creeks and gulches have been worked over a number of times but rich spots are occasionally found that pay the placer miner better than a daily wage.

CORONA MINES TO BE WORKED ON BIG SCALE

(From Wednesday's Daily)
With ample finances to carry out one of the largest mine development enterprises ever attempted in the Bill Williams Fork range, Sam A. Butler, superintendent of the Corona Copper Company, arrived here yesterday on his way to his company's properties from Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. During his visit to Pittsburgh he purchased a large hoisting plant which will be installed as soon as delivered. The hoist will replace a whim now used at his deepest working shaft, now down 400 feet on the vein. Three shifts of miners will be employed in sinking the shaft as soon as he arrives and a tunnel now in a distance of 300 feet on the vein will also be pushed ahead with three shifts. The face of the tunnel, which follows the hanging wall, seven feet by four feet in the clear, is all ore. Not a piece of ore can be found in its, according to Butler's statement, assaying less than 20 percent in copper. The size or extent of the ore body has not yet been determined by crosscuts.

There is also another shaft down to a depth of 194 feet in which the showing is almost as promising as in the tunnel. The product of the mine is ideal from a smelting standpoint. It not only requires no flux but is so heavy in iron and lime that dry ores can be smelted with it. This was proven by practical test at the Humboldt smelters last year when a carload of it was sold to the Arizona Smelting Company.

Superintendent Butler expects to have his new hoisting plant in operation by the middle of October and his camp in shape for the accommodation of the large development force.

He discovered the promising vein which he is confident of developing into one of the great copper mines of the territory in October, 1871. He was then prospecting for silver and gold. The copper glance ores found resembled the copper glances of California mines in which he had been previously employed and which were very rich in silver. As a silver mine it was a disappointment to him, and its gold value was not high enough to justify development in that region, then among the most forbidding and inaccessible in the west. He abandoned his discoveries and left for other parts. Seventeen years ago, he returned and relocated the ground, confining his operations to its development ever since. The richness of its copper ores attracted the attention of Pittsburgh capitalists after the construction of the Arizona and California railroad to Parker.

He sold his holdings, comprising sixty-four claims and the title was passed into the Corona Copper Company, organized by the purchasers. He is a large stockholder and has the management of the concern. In subscribing to the development fund no stock has been sold to any but the original investors. The mines are so promising that the owners desire to retain possession of all the company's stock, considering it among their best investments.

The camp is located 26 miles northwest of Wenden and 12 miles southeast of the Signal mine. A route for a branch railroad to the Signal mines, from the main line at Bouse, passes within eight miles of the Corona group.

Superintendent Butler, who is a pioneer of that region, is enthusiastic over the mineral possibilities of the Bill Williams Fork range. He is confident that it will develop into the greatest copper and gold producing region in the west. He left for his camp last night.

SUIT CLOSES WITH A HORSE ON HANSON

(From Wednesday's Daily)
Replevin proceedings for the possession of a black mare in which R. M. Hanson, Nellie Earl, known all over the county as "Four Eyed Nell," and Harry Ames were the central figures, occupied two hours yesterday in the court of Justice of the Peace McLane, Hanson being awarded the disputed equine.

R. M. Hanson, who instituted the suit, was represented by Attorney J. E. Russell, and Ames, who had the animal in his possession, had as counsel Leroy Anderson. A combination of at least four brands adorns the beast of burden, showing that it had several changes in ownership, one of which, at least, must have appeared "shady" to the court, judging from the decision rendered.

In his testimony, Hanson said that he owned the animal in 1893 when it was yet a colt. The Henderson brothers of Walker, while gathering horses, drove it with a herd into their corral. Its mother was not found by them. Hanson gave it to the Hendersons and they branded it with their "W" slash diamond" iron and turned it out on the range. Subsequently Hanson purchased it from the Hendersons. Three and a half years later, according to Hanson, it was seen in Nellie Earl's corral, on Blind Indian Creek, with an

"A G connected" brand added to the other and the shape of the original Henderson brand converted into a "cross." Hanson produced a bill of sale to show the passing of the title to him from the Hendersons.

On the witness stand Nellie said that she purchased the mare from Hanson, the consideration, according to her statement, being a prolonged love and affection. She said she sold the horse to Ames for a cash consideration and gave Ames a bill of sale. Ames produced the bill of sale in court to prove his title, but the chain of title being broken between Hanson and Nellie, the court awarded the animal to Hanson. Nellie now threatens to institute suit against Hanson for the collection of the value of the animal. Ames' attorney gave notice of an appeal.

BIG PLACER PLANS ALONG COLORADO RIVER

(From Thursday's Daily)
YUMA, Sept. 16.—Dr. H. V. Clymer and his associates in the Imperial Placer Mining Company expect to commence prospect work next week on their placer ground. They have recently located forty-six placer claims, covering a strip of country from one-half to one mile wide and extending from Pot Holes to Picacho, a distance of twenty and one-quarter miles.

Their theory is that this ground was formerly the bed of the Colorado river, and that consequently the dirt with which it is now filled is rich in placer gold. This supposed old channel runs between a slate porphyry formation and a granite dyke. For years and years placer miners have found much wealth in the sands both at Pot Holes and at Picacho.

The company proposes to sink a 300-foot shaft a few miles from Pot Holes to determine to a certainty that this wash is an old river bed. That determined, they are confident that it cannot be otherwise than that they have ground of wonderful richness. Should their test prove that it is not the former river channel, their work is done and their dream of gold is no more.

Those interested in the proposition, besides by Clymer, are J. L. Horton, of Phoenix, an experienced mining man, Captain J. D. Fauntleroy, Robert Weatherstone and Jack Whitney, all of Laguna dam, and Dr. Wm. Dunfield, of Los Angeles.

LOST GULCH GOLD MINE PROVING A WINNER

(From Thursday's Daily)
What appears to be the first really successful attempt to develop a profitable gold mine in this district, is being made by Charles Nesbitt, A. McAlpine and Jack Kallston on their property in Lost Gulch, about eight miles west of Globe, says the Silver Belt.

The property comprises five full claims and two fractions and adjoins the old Kasser mine owned by John J. Gibbons, of New York, which is said to have produced a quarter of a million dollars of gold, but failed through mismanagement.

Messrs. Nesbitt, McAlpine and Kallston have been steadily developing their property for several months and have sunk a shaft on the vein at an incline of about 42 degrees to a depth of 175 feet. The shaft is in ore three feet wide all the way down, and twenty tons of ore, taken out in sinking, has been sacked for shipping. The ore runs 30 to 40 per cent in lead, three to five ounces in gold and four to five ounces in silver to the ton, and these values have been fairly well maintained from the surface to the bottom of the shaft, although the best ore was encountered at about 100 feet down, at which depth a drift has been started, to take out ten tons of ore to complete a carload of thirty tons, which will be shipped as soon as possible.

MANAGER LODER IN PART OF GOOD ANGEL

(From Thursday's Daily)
With deep feelings of gratitude for Manager Loder, of the Western Union, and the generous hearted citizens of Prescott who assisted her, including the board of supervisors, who furnished her transportation for herself and little ones, Mrs. Anna Mikesell, who arrived here from Phoenix Tuesday morning with her four small daughters in destitute circumstances, left yesterday morning with her children for Sacramento, California. In the California capital she will join her mother, who owns a small farm in that vicinity.

At a meeting of the board of supervisors yesterday morning she was handed a ticket to Sacramento. Generous hearted citizens called at the Prescott Hotel before she left and handed her small amounts in cash. Even after the train pulled out several telephone messages were received at the hotel offering aid from persons who had read the story of her sad plight in the Journal-Miner.

Manager Loder and his assistant, Mr. Michel, started a subscription list a short time after she reached the city and succeeded in raising sufficient money to pay all her traveling expenses to her mother's home, besides a balance to be used in purchasing clothing for herself and cherished charges.

SPACE LIARS ARE AT WORK ON BORDER

(From Friday's Daily)
Satisfied that the so-called Mexican revolutionary movement reported from the border counties of southern Arizona is not as serious as reported, Judge John C. Wallis, special agent of the department of justice, left here yesterday afternoon for Washington.

"Many serious revolutionary reports are published from the Mexican border which have been proven without foundation after thorough investigation. In my searches through Arizona I found no evidence to warrant the arrest and prosecution of any one in Arizona. Through a Mexican consul it was reported to me that twenty-four armed men left Morenci on a certain date for the Mexican border with the intention of starting a revolution. The report was as complete as could be desired, the names of the men being given. I made a thorough investigation of the case in Morenci and found the report false in every particular. I examined the mining company's time books in the employ of which the men were reported to have been before their departure and was surprised to find all of them at work in the smelters and mines there. The books showed that the men were at work on the day they were reported to have left for the border, the day after and every day since. It is nonsense to believe that twenty-four men can work in Morenci and be in Mexico at the same time, engaged in revolutionary warfare.

"After thorough investigation I am now leaving for Washington with two opinions. One is that the Mexican government should protect its own border and that a revolution there is of no concern to our government. The other is that in case the government of the United States considers a revolution there of concern to it, that the war department is the proper authority to handle it and not the department of justice.

"I am pleased with my visit to Arizona and much impressed with the efficiency and courtesy of its peace officers. I am a great admirer of the Arizona rangers. I met them in southern Arizona and believe that they can take care of any revolutionary movement that starts on this side of the border."

JOHN LAWLER GETS ENTIRE $30,000 BOND ISSUE

(From Friday's Daily)
John Lawler of this city was the successful bidder for the purchase of $30,000 of school bonds authorized by special election recently for the erection and equipment of a school building in West Prescott. Of the five bids opened yesterday by the school trustees his was considered the best and the bonds were sold to him at a premium of $600.

The highest bid submitted was that of A. B. Leach and Company of Chicago in the amount of $30,982, with the proviso that the interest be paid semi-annually instead of annually as provided by law. The bid was passed by the trustees as the proviso could not be complied with by them. The other bids were Woodin, McNear and Moore of Chicago, $30,158; S. A. Kean, Chicago, $30,152, provided the bonds draw five and half per cent interest instead of five per cent interest; and the Providence Savings Bank and Trust Company of Cincinnati, Ohio, $30,161.

The bond issue is divided into thirty coupons of $1,000 each, payable as follows:

- No. 1 in 1913.
- No. 2 in 1915.
- No. 3 in 1916.
- No. 4 in 1917.
- No. 5 in 1918.
- No. 6 in 1919.
- No. 7 in 1920.
- Nos. 8, 9 and 10 in 1921.
- Nos. 11, 12 and 13 in 1922.
- Nos. 14, 15 and 16 in 1923.
- Nos. 17, 18 and 19 in 1924.
- Nos. 20, 21 and 22 in 1925.
- Nos. 23, 24 and 25 in 1926.
- Nos. 26, 27 and 28 in 1927.
- Nos. 29 and 30 in 1928.

Plans and specifications for the new building are now under consideration by the trustees, who expect to have everything in readiness to break ground for the new structure soon.

FIRE AT THE PEACOCK

(From Friday's Daily)
Thirty cords of wood and the hoist building at the Peacock mine in Copper Basin, owned by the McKinley Mining and Development Company, were destroyed by fire at an early hour yesterday morning. The loss is estimated at $400, uncovered by insurance. The fire started at 3:15 o'clock, fanned by a strong wind from the south. It made rapid progress until the building was enveloped in flames, despite the desperate efforts of the miners employed there under the direction of C. E. McKinley, president and general manager. Fortunately the water tanks were full, furnishing water for the fire fighters who extinguished the flames before the hoisting machinery was damaged. The fire is believed to have started from a spark from the smoke stack.

200,000 OPERATIVES MAY BE LOCKED OUT

MANCHESTER, Sept. 18.—Unless the long standing wage dispute is settled today, two hundred thousand cotton operatives will be locked out tomorrow.

REGISTER QUILTS TO ATTEND PRIVATE BUSINESS

(From Friday's Daily)
Lyman W. Wakefield, who has been register for the United States land office in this city a little more than a year, has tendered his resignation to President Roosevelt to take effect as soon as his successor is selected and can take charge, says the Phoenix Gazette.

Mr. Wakefield was appointed to the office by President Roosevelt upon the recommendation of United States Marshal Ben Daniels. He resigns because the work he is expected to do is too heavy for one man. He is not allowed a sufficient number of clerks and stenographers to discharge his duties in proper manner and rather than have it charged that he is lax in his duty he has decided to give up the office. As soon as his successor is appointed and the affairs of the office have been turned over to him, Wakefield will return to Tucson to take charge of his business affairs there. Mrs. Wakefield and children left Phoenix some time ago and are now at their former home in the Old Pueblo.

Since Register Wakefield took over the land office the business has increased enormously and out of all proportion to the appropriation made for clerical assistance. In addition to this, he desires to devote his entire time hereafter to private business. While acting as register, Mr. Wakefield has made a splendid record as a conscientious, painstaking and efficient public official.

As yet no candidates have appeared for the place. After the death of Milton R. Moore, his predecessor in office, a crowd of candidates sprang up, Wakefield being the successful man. Most of the men who were candidates at that time are still in the territory and will doubtless again announce themselves.

YAVAPAI MINERALS TO BE SHOWN AT ALBUQUERQUE

(From Friday's Daily)
Yavapai county's mineral exhibit, conceded the best of any county in the territory, will be on exhibition at the Albuquerque exposition, which opens September 29. Governor Kibbey has granted permission to take the exhibit to New Mexico. The collection of minerals is now ready for shipment in the territorial fair grounds in Phoenix. It will be shipped to Albuquerque September 23, in a forty foot baggage car with the mineral exhibits of Wickenburg, the new copper country tributary to the Arizona and California railroad and the copper and ore exhibits of the United Verde Copper Company from the United Verde mines at Jerome, which will be taken on board at Jerome Junction. A. A. Johns, fair commissioner, will have charge of the mineral and agricultural exhibits of this county, including the mineral collection from the new copper country. He will leave Phoenix in charge of the car and will have personal charge until its return to Phoenix.

Commissioner Johns is confident that the Yavapai county exhibit will be awarded the $500 prize offered for the best collection of minerals at the exposition by Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania. He left on last night's train for the new copper country, where he will collect ores from the different mines of that land of mineral wonders which promises with development to rival any part of the west in copper and gold production. This collection will be taken to Wickenburg and shipped with the Yavapai county exhibit.

Wickenburg mining men are making a special collection of the ores of the districts tributary to their town. Commissioner Johns will have charge of this also.

The United Verde Copper Company will have a number of copper bars and mineral curiosities from the United Verde mine, one of nature's richest treasure vaults of the southwest.

All over the country intense interest is manifested in the National Irrigation Congress which convenes in Albuquerque on the opening day of the fair. Men of national prominence in every state and territory of the union will attend the congress, as well as a number from foreign countries. Already arrangements have been made to park 153 private cars in the railroad yards of Albuquerque. At the close of the congress and exposition the Santa Fe will give an excursion to this territory over its lines, with stop-over privilege at the Grand Canyon. The excursion rate from Albuquerque to Prescott and return will be $18.75, allowing all visitors at the Irrigation Congress an expedition from other states to see this land of wonders for a mere trifle.

FORMER YAVAPAI MAN DIES IN CALIFORNIA

(From Wednesday's Daily)
In response to a telegram from T. J. Jare, California, announcing the sad news of the death of his brother Thomas Caldwell, in that place, September 14, J. R. Caldwell of Williams valley left here yesterday morning to attend the funeral.

Deceased was a former resident of this county. He was a generous hearted and energetic young man, held the highest esteem by all who knew him.

Surviving he leaves his wife and child, his mother, four sisters and brothers residing in California, and R. Caldwell of Williams valley.
